

The Failure of Category-First Browsing

The Noise (Generic Directories)

Most wellness apps ask you to pick a category and a price before they even attempt to understand what you are carrying. This turns a vulnerable transition into an exercise in filtering and guessing.

The Reflection (Klear Karma)

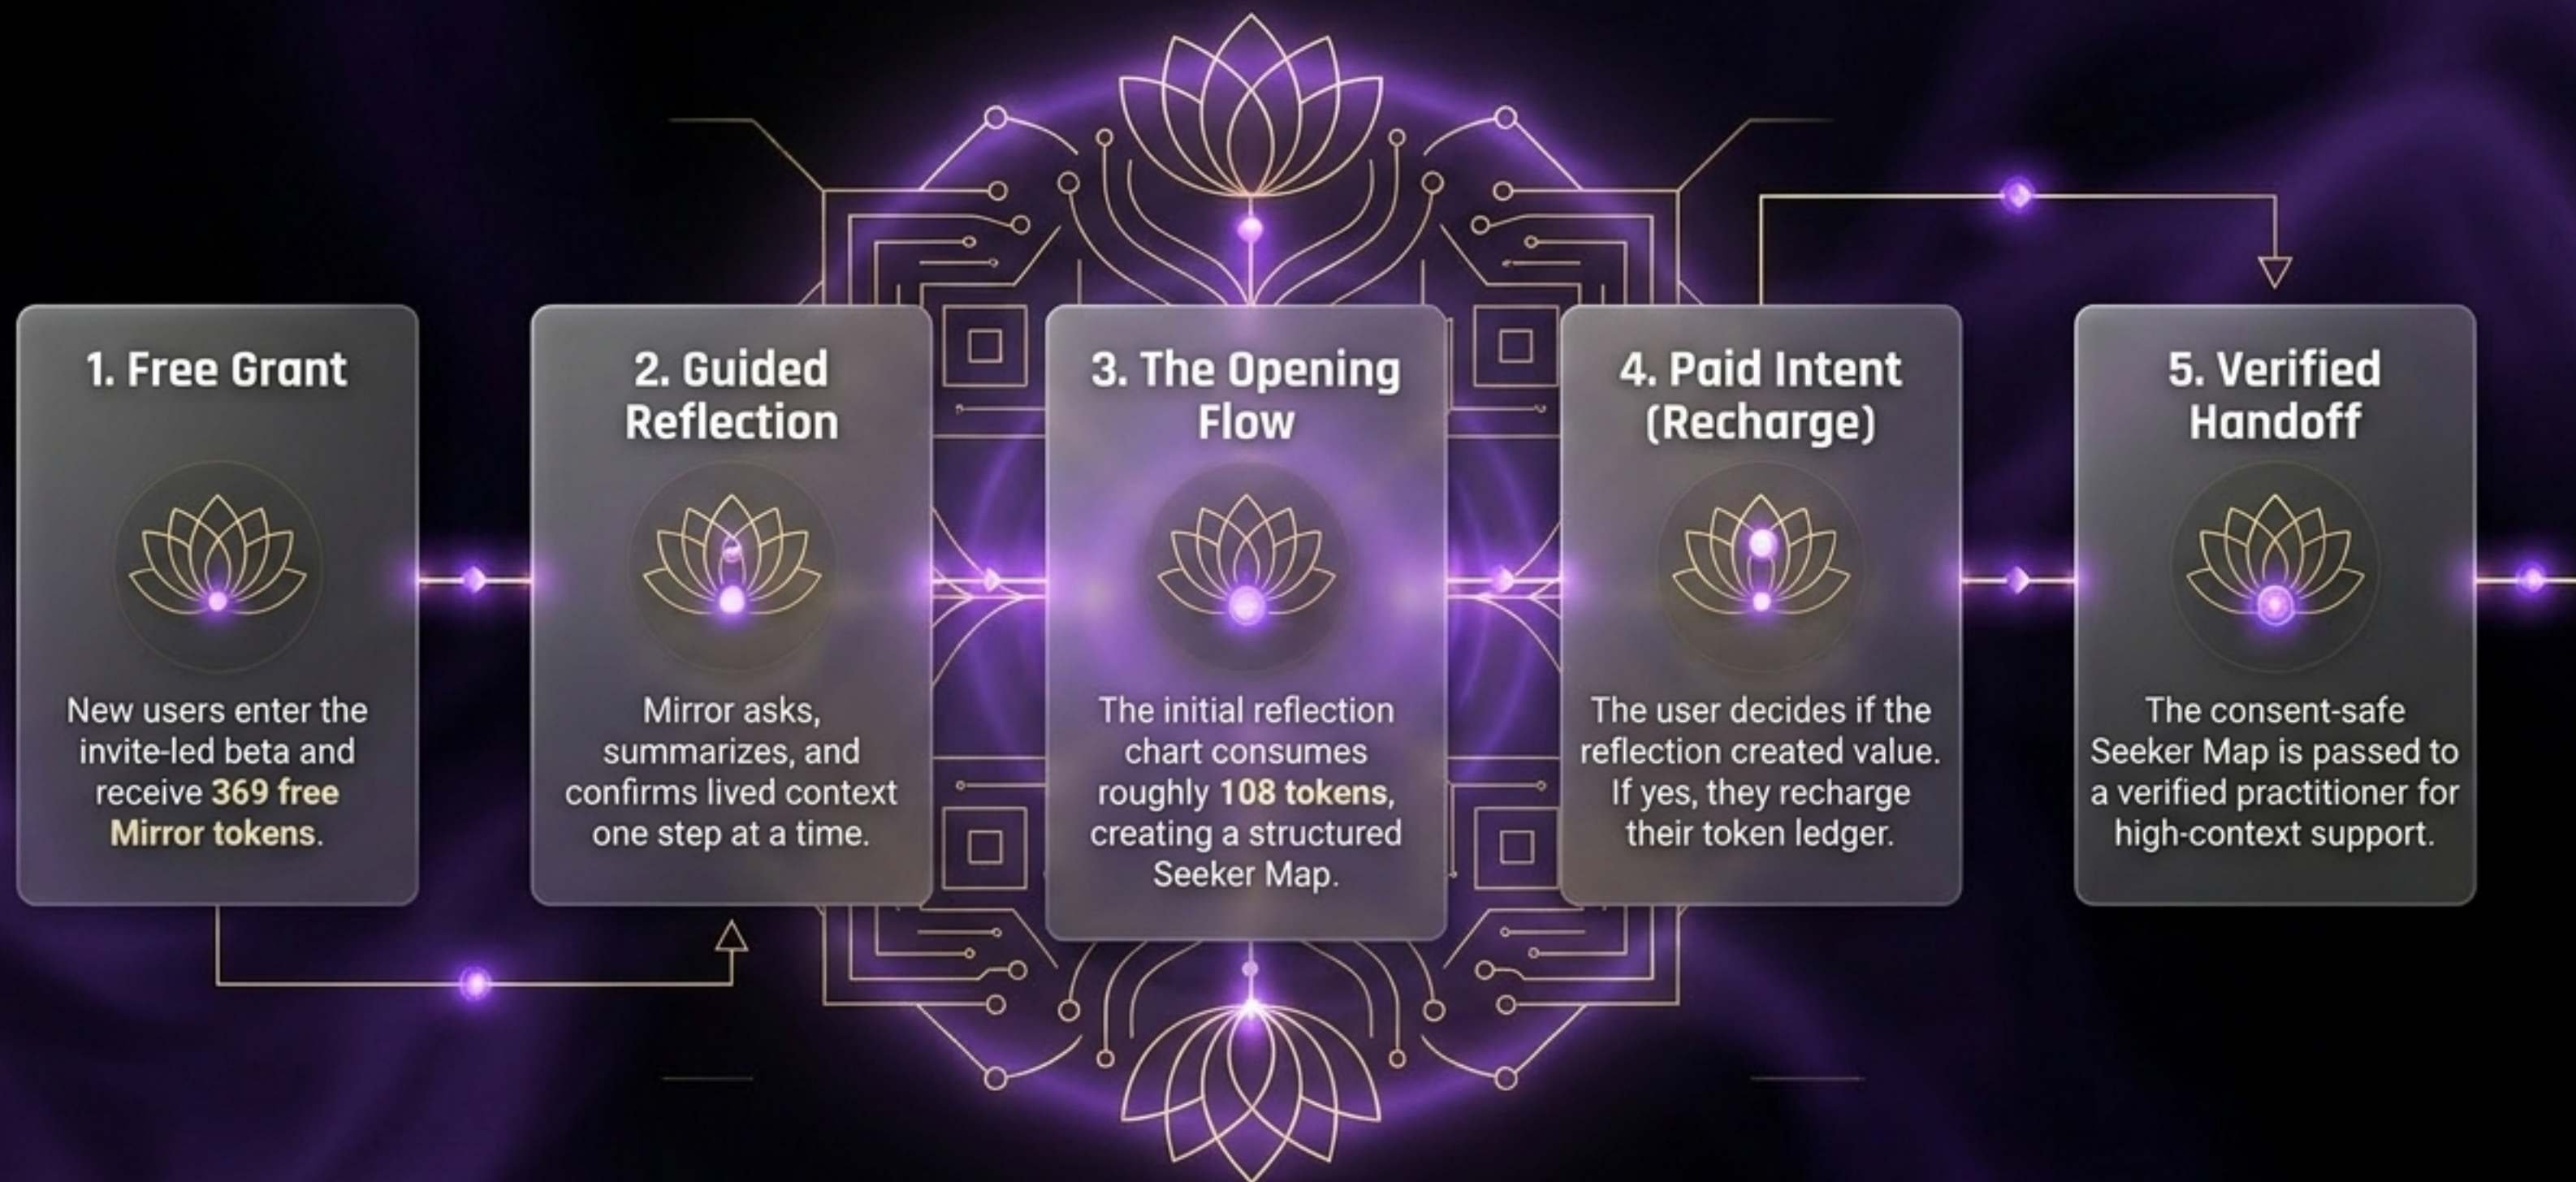

Klear Karma starts with lived context.

We ask one primary question at a time, summarize the patterns, and wait for confirmation before any marketplace appears.

The Anatomy of Consent

Guidance Without Certainty

Pillar 1: Life in Transition

Scenario: Navigating a career change or relationship shift.

System Response: Mirror maps resonance threads and routes toward verified somatic or energy practitioners. Symbolic context is used carefully.

Pillar 2: Returning for Depth

Scenario: A seeker with high spiritual literacy ready for ongoing practice.

System Response: Mirror accesses the historical Seeker Map, unlocking deeper tiered session offers without starting from scratch.

Pillar 3: The Hard Boundary

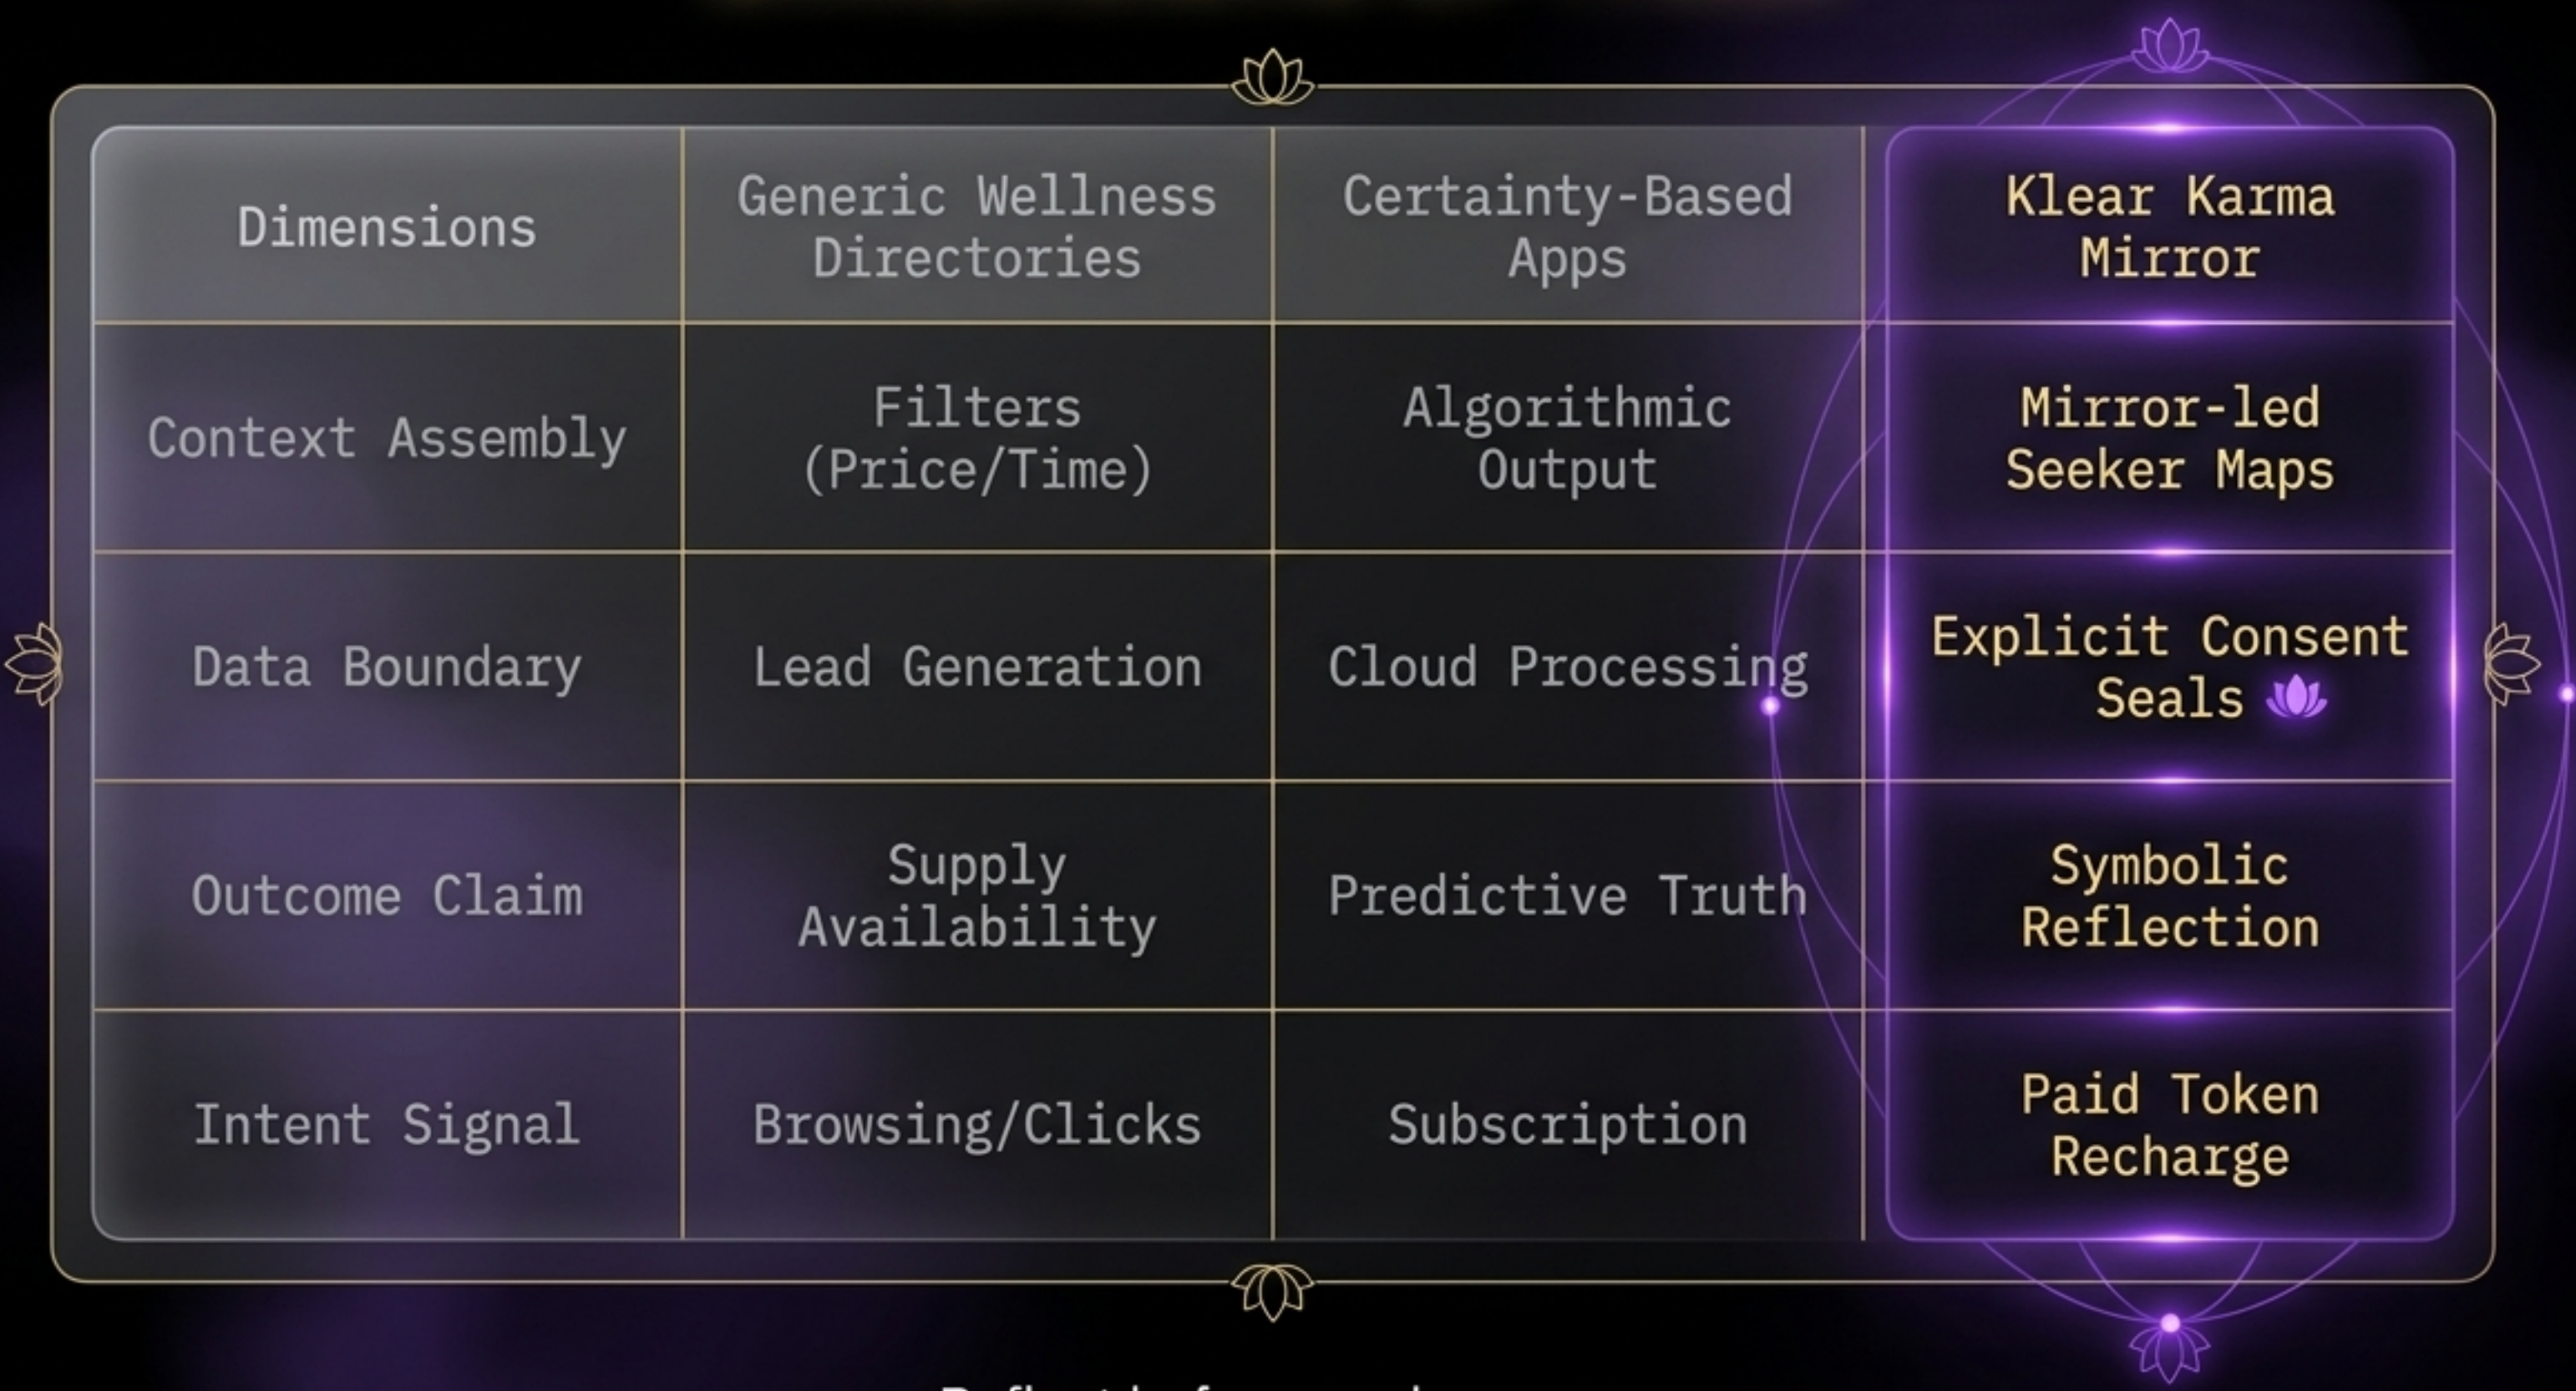

Scenario: Detection of acute crisis or clinical mental health emergency.

System Response: Mirror immediately halts the token flow, routes away from spiritual guidance, and clarifies it is not a clinical service. No tokens are charged.
